

Painfully Slow Climb Out of Recession Leaves Many Morgan County Residents in Need (And How YOU Can Help)

A 2012 National Employment Labor Project report revealed that middle-wage occupations accounted for almost 60% of job losses during the Great Recession, but only 22% of job growth in the post-recession period. Conversely, lower-wage jobs accounted for 21% of job losses during the Recession, but 58% of job growth in the post-recession period. A 2012 report by the Indiana Institute for Working Families revealed what this means for Hoosiers. “As of 2011 in Indiana, 71% of all jobs were in occupations that pay less than what is required for economic self-sufficiency (200 percent of federal poverty guidelines).”

For a family of four, 200% of the federal poverty guidelines is $47,111. This is more than the 2012 median income for Indiana households—$46,964.

The 2012 median household income for Morgan County residents is $52,886.

12.6% of Morgan County residents—8,739 people—live in poverty, far below this median income level. The percentage of Morgan county children living in poverty is even higher—18.8% — 3,184 kids.

How YOU can help

Identification is the first step to improvement. Every single person can have a positive impact on the community, but not everyone knows what kind of help is needed. Connect2Help 2-1-1 is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Dial 2-1-1 or visit www.Connect2Help.org to learn about nearly 1,300 human services programs that serve Morgan County.

Act on what you've learned about your community.

Time

Help out in a food pantry, shelter, community center, or any other organization in which you are interested. Working directly with those who need help makes abstract concepts like “poverty” and “hunger” real and personal. This provides the motivation to keep investing in the community.

Skills

Offer leadership, computer, accounting, or any other number of talents to community organizations. Every skill you donate offsets the cost of running these programs. These saved dollars can then be used to help Morgan County residents in need.

Dollars

Direct financial contributions streamline the process of providing help to people in Morgan County. A tax deduction for you could literally save someone's life.
